Proposed constitution is ratified

MU students turned out in small numbers Monday to ratify the proposed Student Government Constitution. The vote was 185 for ratification with 49 opposed.

The constitution includes several new provisions which will serve as the basis for the upcoming March 11 Spring Election. Among the changes are to allow either a junior or senior to serve as student body president and vice president and the right to succeed oneself for these offices.

Upon approval of the constitution, an enabling act designed to allow transition to the bi-annual election system automatically went into effect. The change to two yearly elections is intended primarily to create a rotating Student Senate. Such a staggered replacement of members is hoped to insure that Senate programs will continue to operate during periods when new members take office.

Under the enabling act, students will elect half of the membership to one year terms in the March 11 election, with the remaining seats to be filled until October. Class officers will also only serve until October.

These short term positions will then be reelected this fall for full, one year terms as provided by the constitution.

A third change in the newly ratified charter has transferred class officers from Senate to a Class Advisory Council within the Executive branch of Student Government.

This change was necessary to avoid double representation of students in Senate. Student Court ruled in December that constituencies must be based strictly on students' residences.

GIVE BLOOD +

Drive for blood at union today

The bi-annual blood donor day will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at Shawkey Student Union, according to Mrs. H. H. Eddins, Red Cross blood recruiter.

The Red Cross sets no goals for the number of units, but any number around 300 pints would be considered a success, Mrs. Eddins said.

The last blood donor day was Nov. 11 when 252 units of blood were received by the Red Cross.

All donors must first pass a physical examination. Donors must weigh at least 120 lbs. and be judged in very good health by the Red Cross doctors.

Trophies will be awarded to organizations with the largest percentage of members giving blood. Last year Kappa Alpha Order and Phi Mu sorority won the trophies.

The blood can be used by any MU student or relative, and any student or faculty member can receive 10 pints free if they donate today. This is $350 worth of free blood.

Shafer will speak

William Shafer, vice president of American Research Bureau, will speak today as part of Marshall's Broadcasting Lecture Series.

This series is designed to serve the needs of students and faculty of broadcasting, staffs of radio and television stations, and West Virginia's broadcasting community.

Shafer, an American Research Bureau official since 1948, will discuss the dimensions of the broadcasting industry. He will also discuss its organization and use of audience research for programming purposes. He's currently located with the company in New York City.

Dr. Walter Emery, professor of communications at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, will speak Tuesday, March 17.

All lectures will begin at 3 p.m., Smith Hall, Room 154.

Michael H. Agar and Richard Stephens of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) Clinical Research Center in Lexington, Ky., will be on campus today and Wednesday to speak on drugs and their effects.

They were recommended to Dr. Donald K. Carson, dean of students, and William Strawn, director of Counseling and Testing Center, by patients at the research center to relate drug information to students. Dr. Carson and Strawn recently visited the center and talked to patients.

Agar, 25, is a graduate of Stanford University and has a M.A. equivalent from the University of California at Berkeley. Presently, he is a cultural anthropologist at the NIMH Clinical Research Center. He has written for several publications pertaining to drug addiction and given lectures at colleges and high schools.

Stephens, staff sociologist at the NIMH Clinical Research Center, graduated from Louisiana State University. He received his M.A. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1966. He is currently writing his Ph.D. dissertation entitled, "Relapse Among Narcotic Addicts: An Empirical Study." He has participated in various drug education activities in high schools and colleges around the state of Kentucky.

The schedule for seminars and appearances to be held on campus today and Wednesday is as follows:

Today: 9:30 a.m. -- meet with Education 406 class; 10:15 a.m. -- meet with Dean of Students Staff and Campus Christian Center Staff; noon -- luncheon in the Banquet Room of Twin Towers Cafeteria with selected students and other guests; 2:30 p.m. -- informal meeting with students at Campus Christian Center; 4 p.m. -- meet with

The Parthenon staff will be conducting a student poll from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday concerning Marshall's future athletic program. The purpose will be to collect information on how Marshall students feel the present athletic situation should be handled.

Staff members will be stationed at voting tables set up in Shawkey Student Union and lobbies of Smith Hall, South Hall and Twin Towers West. Reporters will also be working through campus contact.

Parthenon Poll

Questions to be asked on the poll will be:

1. Should Marshall wait three years and try to get back in the MAC?;
2. Should we form our own conference?;
3. Join another conference?;
4. Remain Independent?;
5. Other suggestions?;
6. Get rid of our intercollegiate athletic program completely?

The results of the poll will be published in this Friday's Parthenon. Students are urged to sign only one form to make the poll as accurate as possible.

Drugs: campus use 'increasing'

By STEVE FRAME
Campus editor

"The availability and use of drugs on the Marshall campus has increased to great proportions since last spring," according to the Rev. George L. Sublette of the Campus Christian Center.

Based on several counseling sessions with drug-using students, the Rev. Sublette has reached the conclusion that marijuana and other drugs are "easy to pick up on campus."

"According to the students I have talked with, the student union, residence halls, and Greek houses are the best places to pick up the stuff," he said.

However, Chief G. H. Kleinknecht of the Huntington police department said he felt drugs were but a very "minor problem" at Marshall. In a recent interview with a journalism class at Marshall, Kleinknecht said as far as he could remember only one Marshall student has been arrested in connection with drugs thus far this year.

On the other hand, Sublette said "I think it's rather common knowledge around campus that marijuana may arrive in the mail or be carried in from the D.C. or New York areas by student excursions. Ordinarily the person gets enough for his own use and then a portion he can sell to pay for his trip and drugs."

How much does marijuana cost on the Marshall campus?

According to one student, "One-half ounce costs $5 to $8. One ounce costs $12 to a local pusher. One ounce sells to the public for $15 to $20. Most shipments come to the pusher in kilos which are about 2.2 pounds."

Letter to the editor

TO THE EDITOR:

During the past few days there have been many questions raised as to whether I was going to run for Student Body President in opposition to the Independent Student's Party, the ISP.

After careful thought and consideration, with many factors involved, I have decided that I will NOT run for that office. I am still opposed to the party for many reasons, some which I will include in this letter. The ISP was secretly organized thus giving no opposition party a chance to organize.

They talk of having a "cooperative effort," sure they will have a cooperative effort, what else could they have with no opposition? Their platform is extremely general and incomplete, they thus far have refused to squarely face any IMPORTANT issues concerning Marshall.

They seem to be more concerned with redeeming the world rather than helping our University. I admit that they have, in their platform, mentioned a few problems concerning our school, but why haven't they mentioned any solutions to these problems? Anybody can drum up a thousand problems to put down on paper, but it takes a man with ideas to come up with effective solutions to solving these problems.

Another reason I am opposed to this party is because they now are attempting to form a solid block, to vote as a block to roundly defeat anyone running against them. In the past few years, the question of fair election and democracy has been heard around the school, but to me anybody that wants to railroad the student body into voting for them because there is no one else running, is simply practicing, on a small scale, a form of dictatorship.

I am not naive enough to understand that nobody else can run if they want to, of course they can, but how effective can anybody be fighting a whole party? Is their anyone wealthy enough to want to try matching finances with the party? If so, and if you're qualified, and if you have the answers to our problems, then I urge you to run against them.

The party says they have gathered 1500 pledges to support their party. After reading their platform many times, with strict examination, I simply have to say that these people, if they exist, didn't sign that pledge because they honestly feel that their platform has the solutions to our problems, because it simply contains no answers, just problems.

I feel that these people have signed because it is something new and different, and because they are fed up with the ineffective Student Government that has prevailed. I'll guarantee you one thing, if this party does get in, they WILL be effective, simply because they will control the entire Student Government senate, executive and cabinet. But will they be doing what you the students want from the Student Government? Or will they be doing what they want to do because they have the power?

If this party gets into office I only hope that they will work for the betterment of the students, for if they don't they WILL have the power to do what they want to do.

Senate terms may change

Student senators will serve staggered terms provided the proposed revised constitution met with students' approval Monday.

In the three constituencies of transient students, students living in on-campus housing and students living in off-campus housing, there are 12, eight and six senate slots open respectively.

In each of these half the number of senators will serve six-month terms and come up for reelection in October, and half will serve one year terms, coming up for re-election in the spring of 1971.

These terms are staggered to comply with the bi-annual election clause included in the new constitution.

Filing for the upcoming Spring election will end at 3 p.m. today, according to Margaret Wright, Webster Springs junior and election commissioner.

Candidates will meet today at 3 p.m. in the Student Government office to draw for positions on the ballot.

The election commissioner said candidates may begin campaigning any time, but no signs may be placed in or on campus buildings.

Campaign material may be posted on bulletin boards and other areas specified for posters in dormitories.

Retreat solves few problems

Who really benefited from Leadership Seminar?

The annual two-day retreat sponsored by Student Government is over, but few definite issues are now in proposal form and ready to go before Student Senate.

Discussion of issues that have really confronted students this year only came out toward the end of the conference. And the general feeling offered was that the handling of solutions to any problem should be transferred from the hands of Student Government to the newly-formed Independent Student Party (ISP).

Instead of earnestly investigating the problem areas and deciding on appropriate action to be taken, the foregoing theme was "ISP was formed to take care of this."

Granted, the group was prevented from tackling specific problems due to the absence of faculty and administrative personnel knowledgeable in such matters. And Student Government officials experienced in dealing with current student problems and who could have offered guidance and suggestions to seminar delegates were few in number.

Participants in the meeting should not have felt justified in leaving Carter Caves by entrusting all problems and solutions to ISP, but rather have outlined specific subjects to go before Student Senate.

Seminar planners should be commended for their efforts in organizing the retreat and conducting a smooth program even when support was lacking from several sides.

And maybe next year, some more of the people who are invited to Leadership Seminar will take time to attend and hopefully help the event attain its proposed goals.

345 on Dean's list

The College of Arts and Sciences had 345 students on the Dean's List for the first semester 1969-1970. To make the Dean's List a 3.0 (B) average or better is needed. The Dean's List includes 83 freshmen, 72 sophomores, 82 juniors, and 108 seniors.

Twenty-four freshmen had averages of 3.5 or better and Robert A. Ours, Huntington freshman, had 4.00.

Averaging 3.5 or better were 26 sophomores. The four having 4.00 are Colleen Mooney, Michael M. Gant, Patty S. Bloss, Huntington, and Jay L. Sullivan, Barboursville.

The junior class has 25 averages of 3.5 or better. The six having 4.00 are: Frances L. Holley, Huntington; David Lee Porter, Kenova; Nancy Delcheccolo, Huntington; Beverly Hathaway, Point Pleasant; John A. Stookey, South Point, Ohio; and Thomas A. Wallace, Charleston.

Forty-two seniors averaged 3.5 or better. Eight seniors had 4.00 averages. Included are: Martha J. Imperi, Huntington; William M. Brenner, Milton; John Kirkland, Richwood; Charles Chamberlin, Huntington; Robert Gutzwiller, Huntington; Leslee J. McCarty, Barboursville; Michael R. Nestor, Huntington; and Carolyn A. Norman, Parkersburg.

Cage recruiting is complicated

By TIM BUCEY
Sports editor

Under normal circumstances recruiting can be the most difficult phase of college basketball coaching, and for the Herd coaches the task is even more complicated.

Not knowing who will be head coach next season, the five coaches head out to the recruiting trails this week with Acting Head Coach Stewart Way still at the helm.

Way ended his first season in that capacity on winning note Saturday at Western Michigan, 125-98, but now it will be up to the athletic director, the athletic committee and President Roland H. Nelson Jr. to pick a permanent coach.

A coach is expected to be named within ten days according to Athletic Director Charlie Kautz, but there is no word as to who has applied for the job.

Way said, "I don't know what the story will be there," when asked if he has applied or intends to apply for the job.

Following the season finale Saturday, Way praised his staff and players saying, "The whole staff is proud of the men that participated at Marshall this season. I am personally grateful to Coaches (Ed) Sterling, (Larry) McKenzie, (Dan) D'Antoni and (Drew) Cherner for the work they've done. They've made it very satisfying to me individually."

With a season, which had its ups and downs, completed, the coaches leave Wednesday for the high school and junior college tournaments.

Coach Starling will leave for the District Junior College tournament in Delaware; McKenzie will scout the JC tourney in Florida and Way will go to North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia for the JC tournaments.

Freshmen coaches D'Antoni and Cherner will be watching the high school tournaments.

"Starling just caught the end of the Catholic tournament and got a look at a real good prospect in Roy Thompson who we're very much interested in," Way said.

Thompson at 6-4 is from Charleston Catholic and was named to the all-tournament team the past three years and was Most Valuable Player the last two years. He broke the record this year for most points in the tournament after averaging 20.8 during regular season play.

The Herd finished its season with a record setting victory over the Broncos in which the MU mark for most points scored by both teams was set. The totals for the teams was 223 points, eclipsing the old record set against Old Dominion in 1967-68 season by one point.

"It was really an outstanding squad victory," Way said. "It was as good an effort as any they've given and away from home it was the best effort by far. They all gave 125 per cent."

Individually, Russ Lee finished the season with a 24.1 average following his 30 point performance night, and Blaine

BLAINE HENRY
Scores 33 points

Henry had the biggest game of his career with 33 points. Larry Osborne, a little-used sub for three years, scored 16 points, the high of his career.

"The most satisfying factor was their overall team play. Everyone did his part," Way said.

"Henry had 33 points and a bushel of assists and (Larry) Osborne did a tremendous job with those bombers against their zone."

"Taylor had a bad cold and I don't know what might have happened if he'd been at his physical best. He had 15 points. We set a Reid Fieldhouse scoring record and we probably could have set a record for the Thundering Herd," Way added.

The 125 points was only six away from the most points scored by a Marshall team in a game.

For WMU, John Sperla had 21 points and the high rebounder was Sperla and John Swift with five. Dave Smith and Lee had 11 for the Herd.

Cage coach job still in question

By JOHN BLACK
Sports Writer

Way, Johnson, Allen, or Meckfessel? Who will be the new Marshall basketball coach?

These are just a few of the names that have come to the front as possible candidates for the vacant head coaching position at MU.

Charlie Kautz, athletic director, said he hopes it can be done within two or three weeks.

"There's no question this should be done as quickly as possible," he said.

Stewart Way, acting head coach, wouldn't comment on his position. "I don't know what they have in mind. It's up to them," said Way.

Way was coach at Huntington High School before joining Johnson's staff in 1966.

As for next year, Way commented, "I don't think it's my place to look forward until I'm given the opportunity. That may be somebody else's chore."

Ellis Johnson, former head coach who was reassigned to a non-coaching position in the physical education department, was not available for comment.

Sam Smith of Wayne, Johnson's lawyer, feels that Johnson is already the head coach.

Smith said, "We view the situation that he rightfully is the head coach now."

He added that Johnson has not applied for the position.

"Why should you apply for a job that is already yours," asked Smith.

Rick Meckfessel, Morris

Harvey basketball coach, has been named as a possible successor.

Meckfessel said that as far as he was concerned the job was already filled.

"In the first place, the job is not open," he said when asked if he had applied for the post.

"As far as I'm concerned Coach Way is the head coach at Marshall," he added.

Meckfessel said that he would make no plans until he heard from an official source.

"Right now all I'm thinking about is Morris Harvey basketball until the season is over," said Meckfessel.

His Golden Eagles are playing in the WVIAC playoffs, and if they win that they will be invited to the NAIA championships.

Sonny Allen, coach of Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Va., has also been brought up as a possible candidate.

Allen, a former aide and graduate of Marshall, was hired to build basketball to major status at Old Dominion. This will be the second straight year ODU has been to the NCAA college division tournament.

Allen said that he didn't know the coaching post was vacant. He said that he didn't have any plans to apply for the position.

"That remains to be seen," he said.

Way said he hopes Marshall will never have to go through another year like this one.

"I hope Marshall never has to go through another season as turbulent as this one was. At times it was complete turmoil," said Way.

Swim team finishes with wins

By EMIL RALBUSKY
Sports Writer

Marshall University's eight man swimming team finished the season Saturday with two victories in a double-dual meet at Charleston. MU defeated Morris Harvey 60-43, and West Virginia Wesleyan 69-31.

"We mustered our eight man squad, and they came through in fine fashion. They responded to the challenge," said Coach Bob Saunders.

"It was a close meet. Morris Harvey's squad was double ours, and they were keyed-up to beat us. Wesleyan didn't have much, so we concentrated on Morris Harvey. Against MH we won nine out of eleven events, and against W. Va. Wesleyan we won all eleven events," said Saunders.

In the meet MU broke six pool records. Both the 400 yard freestyle relay, and the 400 yard medley relay were won by Marshall Bruce Kahn, Gregg Broxterman, Ralph Gardener, and Jeff Pratt swam in the latter. The medley relay time was 4:02.7, and in this event, Pratt swam an anchor leg of 49.7 which was a pool record.

"We were extremely pleased to have John Zook in the water. He had been sick all week," said the coach. John was the only winner of two individual events.

He was first in the 1000-yard freestyle with a time of 11:38.1, and was first in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:33.5.

"Ralph Gardener had an excellent meet for us," said Coach Bob Saunders. Ralph set a pool record in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:09.2, and he also swam on both relay teams.

"Jeff Pratt had an outstanding meet," said Saunders. Jeff's 51.3 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle was a pool record, and he anchored both relay teams.

John Carenbauer set a pool record of 1:58.6 in the 200-yard freestyle, and in the 100 yard freestyle he finished third.

"Bruce Kahn, who was out all week with the flu, was obviously off form," said the coach. Bruce, "an excellent competitor," swam well enough to set a pool record in the 200-yard backstroke of 2:23.7.

"Gregg Broxterman, who has been out of the water for two weeks, felt good enough to swim in the meet," said Coach Bob Saunders. Gregg responded by setting a pool record of 2:33.8 in the 200 yard breaststroke.

"Jim Bartness had great individual efforts," said Saunders. Jim finished second in the 200-yard butterfly with his best time of the season of 2:28.5. He was first in the 500-yard freestyle in a time of 5:48.0, and was third in the 200 yard freestyle.

Board considers stadium plans

Plans and specifications for upgrading Fairfield Stadium are to be considered by the Board of Regents in Charleston today. MU also will ask the Board to approve April 2 as the bid opening date for the $800,000-plus project.

Upgrading includes adding about 8,100 seats and installation of synthetic turf.

Champs named in shuffleboard

Kolleen Creager, Beckley sophomore, and a member of Phi Mu, recently won the Women's singles shuffleboard championship, 30-7, defeating Dolly Hall, Huntington freshman, also of Phi Mu.

Irene Bryce, Parkersburg freshman and Patty Kosinski, Huntington freshmen and members of Alpha Xi Delta, won the doubles championship by a score of 31 and 21, defeating Sally Bowser, Parkersburg freshman and Anne Morgan, Pineville junior, both of Alpha Xi Delta.

MU Teachers College gets achievement award

By MARGARET McCLURE
Staff reporter

Marshall University's Teachers College has received the first-place "Distinguished Achievement Award" from the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE) during a national meeting in Chicago.

There were more than 150 entries in the awards program. Marshall took the top prize for its participation and leadership in the Multi-Institutional Student Teaching Center in Kanawha County.

Dr. Roland H. Nelson Jr., MU president, accepted the award at the AACTE annual meeting Thursday at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Featured speaker at the meeting was James E. Allen, U.S. Commissioner of Education and a son of a former Marshall president. Dr. Allen remarked, "I am particularly pleased to be here tonight as Marshall University is honored for its outstanding achievement in teachers education. I have a soft spot in my heart for Marshall because my father was president of this institution."

The Kanawha County Center for which MU won the award was developed to improve teacher education, to upgrade the quality and selection of supervising teachers and to encourage all participating agencies to re-evaluate their roles in teacher education.

MU and Kanawha County participate in the center with Concord College, Morris Harvey College, West Virginia Institute of Technology, West Virginia State College, West Virginia University, and Hampton (Va.) Institute.

The project originated following a speech Teachers College Dean Robert B. Hayes made at Concord College in 1965. The idea was promoted by Miss Genevieve Starcher of the W. Va. Department of Education. She and Dean Hayes worked together to develop the center.

Dean Hayes said, "We have other projects under way which also are worthy of this type of recognition and we hope that the years ahead will prove this to be so. We are very pleased that we have been honored by the AACTE. We hope that our program continues to merit this kind of recognition."

President Nelson said, "The recognition given by AACTE to Marshall, the Kanawha County school system and the cooperating colleges in the Kanawha County Student Teaching Center attests to the national prominence of the teacher education programs at Marshall. It is a real privilege to be associated with the kind of professional faculty which, under the leadership of Dean Hayes, continues to keep Marshall and West Virginia in the vanguards of innovative practices in teacher education."

The purpose of the Distinguished Achievement Award Program is to identify and honor programs which are making outstanding contributions to the improvement of teachers education.

Film and speakers featured at teach-in

ENACT (Environmental Action) will sponsor a pollution teach-in Thursday.

The teach-in begins at 11 a.m. in Science Hall Auditorium with a one-hour film dealing with the immediate dangers of pollution to society.

Following the film, ENACT will sponsor guest speakers at Shawkey Student Union who will discuss problem areas of pollution.

Duncan Williams, professor of English, will begin the discussions at 1 p.m. with problems related to an uncontrolled population growth.

At 1:30 p.m. Dr. A. E. McCaskey, dean of the College of Applied Science, will discuss the water quality and pollution problems related to our waterways.

Following Dr. McCaskey, Carl Beard, director of Air Pollution Control Board will discuss the problems of air pollution on both national and local scales.

Richard T. Jennings, instructor of English, will end the program at 3:40 p.m.

Problems, issues discussed at seminar

No proposals adopted

By TOMMIE DENNY
Editor-in-chief and
LESS SMITH
Managing editor

Student-faculty-administration relationships, racial equality and religion were the main topics of discussion this weekend at the 1970 Seminar.

No proposals were decided upon, however, as those present became involved in long discussions of the problems facing today's college students. Seminar planners before the meeting said that any proposal resulting from the discussions was supposed to go to Student Senate for appraisal and debate.

Lack of faculty and administration attendance hindered the efforts of the participants to explore these issues effectively, according to Rick Roe, Butler, Pa., senior and chairman of this year's seminar.

"I was extremely disappointed in the participation of administration and faculty," said Roe. "Everything would have had more guts to it if they would have been there to hear us."

During the keynote address made Friday night at the seminar's first session, Dr. Constantine W. Curris, director of student personnel programs, spoke on "What Is the Purpose of the University?"

Dr. Curris outlined the four main goals of the university as being "the pursuit of knowledge, recognition of excellence, the brotherhood of man and participatory democracy." He viewed the future of the university as resting "in the power of the University community."

A question and answer period followed.

On Saturday morning the seminar began with a film entitled "Why Man Creates," which was a cartoon history of man's creativity and what it was leading to.

Marvin D. Mills, associate professor of safety education, spoke on "Are Black Men Needed or Wanted at Marshall University?"

"Blacks are needed at Marshall to keep the moral fabric together and to show

West Virginia government and world government that whites accept blacks for their quality of thinking," said Mills. "You should want a man for the color of his thinking, not the color of his skin."

The Rev. Hardin "Corky" King discussed the value of the human being and how we relate to each other. "The religion of piety and morality is gone and religion as seen as an appraisal of the quality of life is in," he said.

"Institutional religion may be what is dead. Religion is changing and people consider it as the god in 'God is dead.'"

The last session of the seminar was a four-student panel discussion on student power, the Greek-Independent relationship, role of the blacks on campus and the Independent Student Party.

Approximately 65 students attended the seminar held at Carter Caves State Park, Ky.
